Vision

Washington State Department of Children, Youth & Families Commitment

The Washington State Department of Children, Youth & Families (DCYF) commitment to the Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA)¹ requires:

- Protecting the essential tribal relations and best interests of Indian children by promoting practices designed to prevent out-of-home placement of Indian children that is inconsistent with the rights of the parents, the health, safety or welfare of the children, or the interests of their tribe.
- When placement away from the parent or Indian custodian is necessary, the placement reflects and honors the unique values of the child's tribal culture and is best able to assist the Indian child in establishing, developing and maintaining a political, cultural, social and spiritual relationship with the tribe and tribal community.

Background and Purpose

Washington State Indian Child Welfare (ICW) Case Review

DCYF follows a government-to-government approach to seek consultation and participation by representatives of tribal governments in policy development and service program activities. DCYF is committed to a government-to-government approach through consultation with Federally Recognized Tribes of Washington State, and to work in collaboration with Recognized American Indian Organizations (RAIOs) and individual American Indians and Alaska Natives to ensure quality and comprehensive service delivery to all Indian children and families served.

To fulfill this commitment, in 2003 the Washington State Indian Child Welfare (ICW) Case Review was developed in collaboration with Washington State Tribes and the former Children's Administration – now DCYF's child welfare services. The ICW Case Review is the result of ongoing collaboration between Washington State Tribes, RAIOS, the Tribal Policy Advisory Committee (TPAC) and DCYF. The first ICW Case Review was conducted in 2007. Subsequent reviews have occurred in 2009, 2012 and 2015. The ICW Case Review Tool was developed to evaluate ICWA compliance and the quality of ICW social work practice in all areas of the state through assessing compliance in meeting:

- The requirements of the Federal Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA);
- The Washington Indian Child Welfare Act (WICWA);
- DCYF Indian Child Welfare Policies and Procedures; and
- Memoranda of Understanding between Washington State Tribes and DCYF.

Goals of ICW Case Review

- Evaluating compliance with Washington State and federal ICWA. The state and federal ICWA apply to Indian children who are (1) members of tribes or (2) eligible for membership and the biological child of a member. The tribe must be a federally recognized tribe(s) including recognized Alaska Native regional corporations and Alaska Native villages.
- Evaluating the quality of culturally competent case management for all Indian families. This includes families where the child meets ICWA's definition of an Indian child.
- Enhancing staff development and understanding of ICW practice by utilizing the ICW Case Review for training and skill building. The ICW Case Review identifies ICWA requirements and the elements of sound culturally competent case management with references to the WICWA and DCYF ICW Policies and Procedures.
- The ICW Case Review results lay the groundwork for improving the quality of ICW social work at the regional and statewide level. Specific practice areas include:
 - Early identification of Indian children
 - Early engagement and ongoing collaboration with Tribes
 - Active efforts to provide services to parents and families to prevent the removal of the child, or to safely return the child home
 - Timely legal notice to Tribes of dependency actions

Components of ICW Case Review

Cases included in the review are from all program areas served by DCYF which include:

- Child Protective Services (CPS) Investigations
- Family Assessment Response (FAR) Interventions
- Family Voluntary Services (FVS)
- Child and Family Welfare Services (CFWS)
- Family Reconciliation Services (FRS)

ICW Case Review Design

The 2019 ICW Case Review Tool was comprised of 43 questions that are divided into eight practice areas. Five sections are devoted to ICW compliance and quality of practice, and the last three sections focus on child safety, well-being and permanency. All ICW compliance questions reference ICWA, DCYF policy, the WSICWA or the Washington State Tribal/State Agreement. The ICW Case Review Tool is designed to be used for multiple purposes:

- Systematic statewide ICW Case Reviews
- Training tool for DCYF caseworkers and managers on the requirements of ICWA and DCYF ICW policy
- Local regional and/or office reviews of ICW cases to be conducted by DCYF staff and Tribes

The 2019 ICW Case Review was facilitated by the Office of Tribal Relations in collaboration with the Central Case Review Team (CCRT) and conducted by a team of reviewers, comprised of:

- Tribal representatives
- RAIO representatives
- Casey Family Programs
- Court Partners
- Alliance Trainers
- DCYF caseworkers and managers

All DCYF reviewers were identified by the region to participate in the review process.

Reviews occurred in six locations across the state. The Office of Tribal Relations developed a random sample, coordinated logistical arrangements of the review and hosted each of the six reviews. The CCRT facilitated consensus building and assisted reviewers to ensure inter-rater reliability. There were different Tribal, RAIO and review participants at each of the six locations. All participants attended training on the ICW Case Review process and tool. The ICW Case Review design includes:

- Four-day reviews that begin on Tuesday and end on Friday
- Review of each case by at least two team members
- Feedback sheets completed on each case reviewed identifying strengths and areas needing improvement. The feedback sheets are provided to the caseworker, supervisor and administrators at the end of the review
- A review team debrief at the end of the third day to discuss the regional results. During the debrief, the team identifies practice themes, strengths, areas needing improvement and systemic issues
- An exit meeting on the fourth day with local administrators, supervisors and caseworkers. The review team provides feedback on the regional ICW practice themes.

There were five non-ICWA questions within the Culturally Competent Case Management section which were developed to be companion questions to the ICWA case management questions. These five questions are not included within the main body of the report, but are included as Appendix A at the end of this report.

Washington Statewide 2019 ICW Report Overview

The Washington Statewide Report includes state and regional results as well as statewide recommendations for quality assurance and improvement plans. The statewide recommendations are designed to be included in future quality assurance and improvement plans in collaboration with Washington State Tribes to increase compliance with ICWA and DCYF ICW policy, and reduce disproportionality. The 2019 Statewide Report includes the following recommendations:

- Improve early engagement of Tribes
- Specialization of ICW offices, units, designated caseworkers
- Utilization of Verified Sources for Ancestry Charts
- Improved Documentation
- Locating Absent Parents and Providing Active Efforts
- Assist with Completion of Paperwork
- Increase Shared Planning Meetings

The Washington Statewide 2019 ICW Report also includes systemic issues that were identified by ICW review teams as barriers to completing ICW requirements. The systemic issues include:

- Native American Evidence Based Providers
- ICWA Case Identification
- ICWA Training
- Documentation of Tribal Legal Notice
- Utilization of a Qualified Expert Witness
- Utilization of ICW Workload Ratios'
- Worker Retention
- File Upload Documentation

Region 2 ICW Overview

The Region 2 ICW Case Review was conducted July 8-12, 2019 at the Yakima DCYF Regional Office.

Context: Indian Child Welfare in Region 2

There is one federally recognized Tribe in Region 2, the Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation. The Yakama Nation consists of members and descendants of 14 Tribes and bands that were federally recognized under the Yakama Treaty of 1855. Yakama Nation is the largest tribe in Washington State with nearly 11,000 members.

The Yakama Nation has a Tribal Court and an exclusive jurisdiction agreement with DCYF while on the Yakama Reservation. The Tribe also has a licensed CPA, NakNuWeSha. NakNuWeSha provides case management services as well as licenses their own tribal foster homes. NakNuWeSha usually carries about 200 tribal cases at any given time. CPS investigations and CPS-FAR interventions are provided by DCYF. DCYF and Yakama Nation have a great working relationship when serving tribal families. If court intervention is needed while DCYF is working with families on the reservation, then a dependency petition is usually filed in tribal court by NakNuWeSha.

The Yakama Agency Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Social Services and Yakama Nation Social Services offer numerous programs and services to Indian children and families. Many of the services are provided regardless of Tribal affiliation. The Yakama Agency BIA Social Services provides financial assistance, counseling for individuals and families and referrals for various services. Yakama Nation Social Services provides drug and alcohol programs for adults and youth, has two Tribal Head Start locations, one tribal school, youth activity programs, a homeless shelter program, behavioral health services, child care, Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) services, domestic violence services and foster homes for Native American children. Indian Health Services operates the Yakama Nation Tribal Health Facility in Toppenish. The Yakama Nation also owns and operates the White Swan Health Clinic in White Swan. The Tribe's health service delivery area covers four counties.

There are eight DCYF offices in Region 2. There are no specialized ICW units or inquiry specialists in the region. The Toppenish office is located on the Yakama Indian Reservation. There are four LICWACs which serve the eight offices in Region 2. The Toppenish LICWAC meets once a week and is able to schedule additional staffing's by appointment. The Toppenish LICWAC serves the Toppenish office and may serve the Yakima, Sunnyside, White Salmon and Goldendale offices when Yakama Nation children are involved. The Yakima LICWAC meets monthly, is able to schedule additional staffing's as needed and primarily serves the Yakima and Ellensburg offices. The Richland LICWAC meets monthly, or more frequently as needed, and serves the Richland and Walla Walla offices. The Goldendale office also has a strong LICWAC team that meets regularly once per month and usually serves tribal families living at the historical fishing sights along the Columbia River.

Region 2 ICW Case Review Sample

A random sample of 16 cases was reviewed. The sample was stratified to be representative of the proportion of ICW cases served by each office within the region. The sample included cases of children or parents identified as Native American in FamLink, the DCYF State Automated Child Welfare Information System (SACWIS). For out-of-home cases, when there were multiple children in the family, the case was evaluated regarding one randomly selected child. Cases were open in one or more of the months from July 2018 to December 2018. The case sample was designed so that approximately 50% of families were affiliated with a Washington State Tribe.

Cases were classified as either an in-home case or an out-of-home case according to the Children's Bureau federal review definition.

- In-home service cases: The case remained open 45 consecutive days or more to provide in-home services and/or to monitor child safety. All children remained in the home during the last 12 months.
- Out-of-home care cases: The identified child was in out-of-home care 24 hours or more through court action or a Voluntary Placement Agreement (VPA) during the last 12 months. The child may have returned home within the last year or had siblings who remained in the home.

In-Home Cases	Out-Of-Home Cases	Total Cases
4	12	16

2019 REGION 2 ICWA CASE REVIEW REPORT

The cases reviewed were classified as ICWA or Non-ICWA. In-home cases were classified as “ICWA Eligible” if one of the children in the family home was either a member or the child of a member and eligible for membership with a federally recognized tribe. It is recognized that ICWA does not apply to in-home cases and the ICWA specific questions were not applicable to in-home cases. The designation of “ICWA Eligible” was for classification purposes only. The number of cases reviewed for each classification is as follows:

Out-Of-Home ICWA	In-Home ICWA Eligible	Out-Of-Home Non-ICWA	In-Home Non-ICWA Eligible
8	2	4	2

The number of cases reviewed from each field office in the region were as follows:

Region 2 Offices	Number of Cases
Ellensburg	1
Goldendale	1
Richland	4
Sunnyside	0
Toppenish	3
Walla Walla	2
White Salmon	0
Yakima	5

Tribal Affiliation of the Children Included in the Region 2 Review

Tribal affiliation included all Tribes identified by a parent or family member including:

- Tribes that have determined the child’s Indian status as member, eligible for membership or non-member
- Tribes whose determination of the child’s Indian status was still pending
- Tribes identified by a parent or family member, with whom inquiry of Indian status was not completed with the identified Tribe

Some children were affiliated with more than one Tribe, including Washington State Tribes, and Tribes outside of Washington State. The Tribes and the number of children affiliated with them are listed below.

2019 REGION 2 ICW CASE REVIEW REPORT

Tribe	Number of Children
Aleut (Egegik Village)	1
Blackfoot Tribe of the Blackfoot Indian Reservation of Montana	1
Cherokee (Unspecified)	1
Cheyenne River Sioux	2
Chippewa Cree Tribe of the Rocky Boys Reservation	1
Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation	3
Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation	2

Children with Washington State Tribal Affiliation

Children were identified by Tribal affiliation in an effort to assess if there were practice differences when serving families from federally recognized Washington State Tribes versus out-of-state federally recognized Tribes and non-federally recognized tribes or Canadian First Nations.

Primary Tribal Affiliation of the Child	Number of Cases
Washington State Tribe	5
Out-Of-State Tribe	11
Non-Federally Recognized Tribe or Canadian First Nation	0

Region 2 ICW Case Review Results

Comparison of Results to Standard Office Reviews and Past ICW Reviews

It is important to note that the results of this review cannot be compared to the results of field office review completed by the Central Case Review Team. The statewide ICWA review was completed with a review tool utilizing questions and rating criteria developed by the statewide Tribal Relations team which are not comparable to the questions and rating criteria utilized within the Children's Bureau Onsite Review Instrument. While some of the questions are similar in structure, the case sampling and rating criteria are not comparable.

Comparison of 2015 ICW Case Review Results with 2019 Case Review Results

As noted above, a note of caution regarding the comparison of previous ICW reviews to the 2019 ICW case review. Previous ICW reviews included case sampling of CPS investigation only cases and CPS-FAR intervention cases. These cases are often short in duration (under 45 days) and do not include services to the family. The purpose of including these cases in the past was to assure the department met policy requirements of inquiry to identify Native American families involved with the department from the inception of the case. During the 2019 ICW review, case sampling criteria utilized the federal definition of a case as an in-home case or an out-of-home case. In addition, since the previous ICW review in 2015, there have been updates to policy expectations and practice clarification which have occurred. Based on these policy updates and practice expectations, individual question wording and rating criteria was adjusted to match these requirements.

Regional Practice Themes

Strengths:

The practice areas below are identified as strengths with a review rating result of 80% or higher.

1. Asking the Mother or Maternal Relatives if the Child Had American Indian/Alaska Native Ancestry
 - In 100% (10) of the cases, the mother or maternal relatives were asked if the child had American Indian/Alaska Native ancestry. Cases were applicable when the mother or maternal relatives were identified and available.
2. Comprehensive Ancestry Charts
 - In 90% (9 of 10) of the cases that required an ancestry chart for the purposes of inquiry, comprehensive genealogical information was gathered from the parents or relatives which included the child's, parents' and grandparents' full name, date and place of birth and tribal affiliation.
3. Second Inquiry with Federally Recognized Tribes to Determine Indian Status
 - In 100% (4) of the cases, when the federally recognized Tribe(s) did not respond to the initial inquiry to determine Indian status, a second inquiry was made to the Tribe(s).
 - In 100% (4) of the cases, the second inquiry was made to a federally recognized tribe within 60 days of the first inquiry.

4. LICWAC Staffing

- In 100% (1) of the cases in which a LICWAC occurred, while inquiry with a federally recognized tribe was pending, the LICWAC staffing was held or attempts were made to schedule the staffing within 60 days of learning the child may be Indian.

5. FTDM Staffing

- In 83% (5 of 6) of the cases, an FTDM staffing occurred when a child was placed into out-of-home care or a placement move was being considered.

6. Ongoing Active Efforts to Provide Services to the Mother and Father

- In 80% (4 of 5) of the cases that remained open for in-home or out-of-home services, there were ongoing active efforts to provide services to the father including engaging and actively working with the father to complete services.
- In 83% (5 of 6) of the cases that remained open for in-home or out-of-home services, there were ongoing active efforts to provide services to the mother including engaging and actively working with the mother to complete services.

7. Case Planning with the Child

- In 100% (1) of the cases of children placed in out-of-home care who were ICWA eligible, there were ongoing efforts made to engage the child in the case planning process on an age appropriate level.

8. Court Requirements

- In 80% (4 of 5) of the cases of children where ICWA applied, the federally recognized Tribe was provided legal notice prior to all dependency fact finding, guardianship fact finding and termination hearings.
- In 100% (2) of the cases of children where ICWA applied, there was a qualified expert witness for all dependency fact finding, guardianship fact finding and termination proceedings in the last two years.

9. Child Safety in Out-of-Home Care

- In 100% (12) of the cases of children placed in out-of-home care, risk and safety threats were adequately identified, assessed and addressed. Children were placed with a safe relative, other suitable person or foster home and if safety threats were identified regarding the child's out-of-home caregiver, all threats were assessed and addressed.

10. Meeting the Educational Needs of the Children

- In 100% (8) of the cases that remained open for services or safety monitoring, the child's educational needs were adequately assessed and appropriate services were provided when needs were identified. When the child's Tribe had educational resources there was ongoing collaboration with the Tribe regarding meeting the child's educational needs.

Areas Needing Improvement:

The practice areas below are identified as areas needing improvement with a review rating result lower than 70%.

1. Asking the Father or Paternal Relatives if the Child Had American Indian/Alaska Native Ancestry

- In 60% (6 of 10) of the cases, the father or paternal relatives were asked if the child had American Indian/Alaska Native ancestry.
 - In 50% (3 of 6) of the cases, the father was asked timely if the child had American Indian/Alaska Native ancestry. This applied to cases opened within the past two years.
- 2. Contact with the Federally Recognized Tribe at Case Opening
- In 0% (0 of 2) of the cases, when it was known at case opening that the child was a member or eligible for membership with a federally recognized Tribe, the Tribe was contacted within 24 hours of being assigned the case as per policy.
- 3. Completing the Indian Identity Request Form at the Initial Visit and Uploading the Form
- In 40% (4 of 10) of the cases, the mother or maternal relatives were asked to complete the Indian Identity Request form at the initial visit.
 - In 25% (2 of 8) of the cases, the father or paternal relatives were asked to complete the Indian Identity Request form at the initial visit.
 - In 50% (3 of 6) of the cases, the Indian Identity Request form was uploaded into FamLink.
- 4. Referral to the Native American Inquiry (NAIR) Unit and Initial Inquiry
- In 60% (6 of 10) of the cases, when Indian ancestry was identified with a federally recognized tribe the social worker provided a complete referral to the NAIR unit within 10 working days of learning the information.
 - In 40% (4 of 10) of the cases, the initial inquiry to federally recognized tribes was completed within 30 days from the time Indian ancestry was identified.
- 5. LICWAC Staffing
- In 25% (1 of 4) of the cases, the case was staffed with LICWAC when inquiry was pending with a federally recognized tribe.
 - In 0% (0 of 1) of the cases, the case was staffed with LICWAC for guidance when the child's Tribe(s) was unavailable or the tribe was in agreement with guidance from the LICWAC occurring.
- 6. Collaboration with Tribe(s) in Case Planning
- In 50% (4 of 8) of the cases of children who were a member or eligible for membership with a federally recognized tribe, there were ongoing efforts to collaborate with the tribe in case planning.
 - In 67% (2 of 3) of the cases of children who were a member or eligible for membership with a federally recognized Tribe, the Tribe was notified in a timely manner and encouraged to participate in a FTDM staffing when placement of the child or a placement move was being considered.
- 7. Ongoing Engagement of the Mother and the Father in Case Planning
- In 17% (1 of 6) of the cases that remained open for in-home or out-of-home services, there were timely and diligent efforts to engage the parent in services, including services offered by tribes and Indian organizations when possible.
 - In 60% (3 of 5) of the cases, when the child was a member or eligible for membership with a Washington State federally recognized Tribe(s), the Tribe was contacted within one working day

Original Date: August 26, 2019 | Revised Date: September 23, 2019

Administrative Services | Approved for distribution by Doug Savelesky, QA/CQI Administrator

to discuss case planning when the case was opened in-home services, out-of-home services, or when there was an emergency removal of a child in the last year.

- In 13% (1 of 8) of the cases of children placed in out-of-home care who were a member or eligible for membership with a federally recognized Tribe, ongoing efforts were made to encourage and support the child's participation in Tribal customs and activities specific to the child's Tribe.

8. Placement Preference

- In 50% (4 of 8) of the cases of children placed in out-of-home care where ICWA applied, efforts were made to identify the Tribe's placement preference. This included efforts to consult with the Tribe prior to making a non-emergent placement decision and efforts to consult with the Tribe in a timely manner after an emergency placement occurred. This measure goes beyond documenting that the tribe was in agreement with the placement to identifying specifically the tribe's placement preference.

9. Assessing and addressing child safety in the family home

- In 14% (1 of 7) of the cases of children who resided in the family home during the last year, risk and safety threats were adequately identified, assessed and addressed.

10. Meeting the physical health needs of children

- In 63% (5 of 8) of the cases when ICWA applied, the child's physical health needs were adequately assessed and appropriate health services were provided when needs were identified; including routine well-child and dental exams. When the child's Tribe had health resources, there was ongoing collaboration with the Tribe regarding meeting the child's health needs.

11. Actions to achieve permanency

- In 38% (3 of 8) of the cases of children who resided in out-of-home care during the last year, the child returned home during the last year or there were sufficient and timely efforts made to achieve permanency for the child in the last year.

Region 2 and Statewide Results for Each Case Review Question

Rating criteria for each question can be obtained through the 2019 Washington State Indian Child Welfare Case Review Tool.

21. If the Tribe or LICWAC did not concur with the child’s case plan and notified DCYF that an impasse existed, were the impasse procedures followed?

Region 2 Results	2019 Statewide Results
NA	NA

An impasse is defined as a deadlock between DCYF, the LICWAC or the child’s Tribe regarding the child’s case plan. There were no applicable cases to this question in 2012, 2015 or 2019. This question remains in the ICW case review to serve as a reminder to Tribes and LICWACs that DCYF strongly encourages the use of these procedures as steps to resolve issues at the lowest possible level within the DCYF organizational structure recognizing that DCYF cannot impose these requirements on Tribes as Sovereign nations.
